Dear Bill:

Thank you very much for your note of February 9 which just arrived.

Definitely we will keep you on the schedule for April 6 -- recognizing that there is a chance that you may have to be abroad. We would far rather take our chances than scratch you from the agenda. It promises to be a great meeting.

What we plan to do, with your concurrence, is to submit three or four questions to you in advance which you and your associates can think through and gather facts, as appropriate, prior to the session. Then I will "interview you" -- asking you these same questions, one at a time. Since you are a keynoter, this gets us off to a fast start, maximum dialogue, and still gives you the opportunity to say what you consider appropriate. If you do not like my three or four questions, we can revise them so that they target on the issues you consider most critical.

So we can get rolling on this, could you identify someone in the organization with whom we might "liaise" in preparing these advance questions?

Thank you again, and sincere best wishes.

Cordially,

STAT
